

Each participant may perform the action of laying their piece of white A4 paper against the surface of their nearest 'coloured' water mass. Once the paper has dried, each participant may send their contribution to the UK using their closest postal service.